Word searches are irresistibly fun. You can find them almost anywhere, for any theme, at any challenge level. But did you know that they have numerous intellectual benefits? Like any puzzle, they are a great way to keep your brain active and develop problem solving skills. They're the perfect boredom buster for long waits for car rides, especially because they provide a cognitive challenge, instead of another round of endless scrolling through social media. For kids, they are a great tool in language acquisition. They offer a chance to practice spelling; children have to pay close attention to every letter in the word to ensure they're circling the correct one. Themed words to find can include new vocabulary words. For example, if the search focuses on occupations, students might learn about unfamiliar jobs such as a radiologist, butcher, or florist. Word searches also help children increase their working memory and their brain processing speeds. Turtle Diary offers an incredible array of easy word search puzzles, all online and all completely free. Kids can play on any device that has an internet connection. You can even make your own free printable word search puzzle! Are you taking a family vacation to the mountains and preparing for a long road trip? Create your own that includes related words such as 'ranger' and 'peak.' You'll have another fun activity for the drive and a chance to introduce unfamiliar vocabulary your kids might hear on the trip. It's easy to print the worksheet out so your kids can still work on it if you lose cell service along the way. Use any of the Turtle Diary word searches to improve your child's cognitive functions and language skills. Best of all, use them to make learning a little more fun and engaging!

Download / Print Puzzle Report a bug Description Earth Day Word Search with 25 Earth Day themed vocabulary words. Perfect for little readers needing something extra to do on Earth Day. Ages 4 - April 22nd, 2020, marks the 50th anniversary of Earth Day, the annual celebration of the environmental movement. In 1970, according to EarthDay.org, about 20 million Americans assembled to demand greater attention to the protection of the planet. Since then, activists around the world have gathered each year to mark the day. Ironically, this year's Earth Day is taking place during one of the most widespread and deadly pandemics the world has seen for generations. As a result, any gatherings or other in-person events have had to be canceled — but that doesn't mean we can't celebrate the occasion while sheltering in place. There are over a thousand different programs from all over the world listed on the Earth Day website. Unless stated otherwise, all take place on Wednesday, April 22nd. A sample includes: Earth Day Live 2020 A range of activists, along with entertainment and political celebrities, will offer discussions, performances, teach-ins, and suggestions for action on the office website of the Earth Day movement. This will take place for 24 hours. Participants include Pope Francis, Steve Ballmer, Sen. Elizabeth Warren, and Dave Matthews. Animation & Poetry for our 50th Earth Day This is a program of 10 short animated films by professional animators, college students, and children, all from the Pacific Northwest and curated by artist and animator Marilyn Zornado. They will be available starting 8AM ET on April 22nd through 8PM ET on Sunday, April 26th. Earth Day Art Model 2020 An "international telematic festival" featuring live performances by a variety of multimedia artists will start at 8PM ET on Tuesday, April 21st, and continue through Wednesday, April 22nd, at 8PM ET. Image courtesy Jupiter Artland Jupiter Artland in Minecraft In a World Earth Day Sculpture Challenge, Jupiter Artland and the Centre for Interaction Design at Edinburgh Napier University is inviting young people to explore sculptures by professional artists and build their own sculptures. The winning design will join Jupiter's permanent collection. Morphosis by Max Cooper and Memo Akten This seven-minute YouTube event, described as "a meditative study of the seemingly infinite nature of space and natural physical structure," will take place on Wednesday at 3PM ET. Earth Week Keynote: Nalini Nadkarni The UVM Environmental Program and the Gund Institute will sponsor a talk by Nalini Nadkarni, the pioneer of tree canopy ecology, from 4:30 to 6:30PM. Nat Geo Earth Day Neighborhood Safari National Geographic is encouraging kids to start their own safaris by creating artwork featuring their favorite animals (there are resources on the website) and then hanging their art out so that others can see them from their windows or as they (safely) walk around the neighborhood. This is only a very small sampling. There is a wide range of other events happening — for example, invitations for children to send in art or to participate in sing-alongs, classes about rooftop gardens in Nepal, and a climate workshop for students in Belarus. To find something you may be interested in joining, you can visit the Earth Day 2020 event page where you can either click on an event on a world map or page through a calendar of events. You can also filter the events by type, age group, and language, or (if you haven't yet) add an event of your own. Update April 22nd, 2020, 8:30AM ET: This article has been updated to include the Nat Geo event. Vox Media has affiliate partnerships. Windows only: Freeware program Quintura Search is a web search tool designed to build powerful keyword-based web searches with a visual interface. The visual semantic map is a graphical map that shows contextual relationships among words in the query. This map helps build a search query by giving hints or words to define the context of the query. The map shows only those words that have close contextual relationships with the keywords in your query. Click a word to change your query and get relevant results that will comply with your new query. What Quintura calls visual semantic maps are very similar to the tag clouds we've all gotten very familiar with. Using Quintura takes a little getting used to, but this is one of those tools that could potentially be very useful given proper practice. Quintura Earth Day word search puzzles are a fun, educational activity to help your students or children celebrate the holiday.
